

The American Council on Germany

and

American Friends of Bucerius

cordially invite you to a Discussion and Luncheon

as part of their joint

Discussion Series:

Talking About China: Europe, China, and the United States in the 21st Century

with

Hendrik Ankenbrand

Business Correspondent

Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung

who will speak about

“The End of Chimerica: A Threat to the United States and Germany?”

Monday, April 12, 2010

12:15 – 2:00 p.m.

at

Crowell & Moring LLP
590 Madison Avenue (22nd Floor)
New York City

There will be no charge for this event. However, you must register to attend.

RSVP (acceptances only) to the American Council on Germany at 212-826-3636 or events@acgusa.org by Wednesday, April 7.

Hendrik Ankenbrand is a business correspondent with the German daily newspaper Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung. He is based in Hamburg, where he reports on companies and politics in the north of Germany. He is currently a Bucerius Fellow at Harvard’s Center for European Studies.

Mr. Ankenbrand holds an M.A. in economics and politics from Cologne University. In 2009, he participated in an international exchange program for journalists, working with local journalists in Beijing, China.

With special thanks to Crowell & Moring LLP for hosting this event